

JOB-HUNTING Guidance

Doctoral International Students

Navigating the Japanese job market can be challenging - especially for Doctoral international students.

Japan's hiring practices, employer expectations, and recruitment timelines often differ greatly from those in other countries, whether you are pursuing a new graduate or mid-career position.

To help you prepare, we are offering an online seminar designed specifically for international students in Doctoral programs.

This session will cover key information for a successful job search in Japan, including how the Japanese employment system works, the roles expected of PhD candidates, employment trends in both academia and industry, essential tips for job-hunting success, and visa-related knowledge.

Students of all nationalities and academic fields are welcome. Don't miss this opportunity to better understand the landscape and take your first step toward a career in Japan with confidence!
